

Wedding Bells

NEWMAN — BURTON
The Renfrew United Church in Vancouver was the scene of a quiet wedding on June 18 when Gwendolyn Una, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Burton, formerly of Irma, was united in marriage to Frank Ernest Newman, recently of Toronto.

Rev. Atkins, missionary from India on furlough, officiated. Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a navy blue afternoon dress with white hat and accessories. Her only ornament was a strand of pearls. Creamy white roses from the home garden fashioned her shoulder corsage.

Mrs. Connie Kellar of Irma, sister of the bride, was her only attendant. Her dress of grey and white complimented by grey accessories and a corsage of white roses.

Wilfred Newman of Langley Prairie, was his cousin's best man. The bride's mother, Mrs. Burton, wore a white and blue figured dress with a navy coat and white accessories and a corsage of white roses.

The church was decorated with roses and sprays of mock orange blossoms and ivy from the home garden. Mrs. E. Rollinson played the wedding music.

After the ceremony a small reception was held at the home of the bride's parents to immediate relatives and friends.

A buffet lunch was served. The centre of attraction being the two tiered wedding cake trimmed in silver and white. Pale pink roses were tucked under the corners of the cake.

The couple left by car on a wedding trip through the Okanagan Valley and the State of Washington. On their return they will reside in Vancouver.

Out of town guests at the wedding were Mrs. Thurston of Irma, with her two children, Donald and Marjorie. Mr. and Mrs. W. Newman and Mr. and Mrs. R. Mufford of Langley/Prairie.

Glen-Coa Gleanings

Others of Sharon who attended the International Luther League convention were Knute and Berge Gubraa and Mr. John Gubraa.

Mrs. O. Likness is now off to Edmonton for a couple of weeks to mark examination papers.

Those of us who were fortunate enough to attend the great Luther League Convention at Saskatoon were thrilled beyond measure at the great number of truly Christian people who attended, the 5000 mark. Nearly 4000 were Lutheran young folk from across the border. They came by private train, busses, cars and even by plane. Faithfully they attended every session, the prayer group in the mornings at 8:30 even being compelled to seek larger quarters. There were 3,700 registered for the Holy Communion service.

These young people have taken the theme "Let Christ Be Lord" and are seeking to make it real in their lives. The speakers, the missionaries, the consecration period at the close of each day were precious highlights. And what credit goes to the 1,500 or more young people who faithfully met for Choral Union practice each morning at 8:15. The wonderful concert on Sunday afternoon is their reward.

The Americans liked Saskatoon, its wide, clean streets, its lack of beer advertising, its clean restaurants without a bar, the friendly Canadian people. And Saskatoon took these young people to its heart as this quotation from the Star-Phoenix proves: "Said a business man today: 'I think even if we didn't do any business with the Luther Leaguers, it's nice to have them here. Everyone has remarked they are a fine lot of young people.'"

The vote at Coal Springs pool was: Fair—31; Green—6; and Saville—3.

An Honor To Canada

THERE ARE AN INCREASING NUMBER of indications of Canada's growing influence in world affairs, and many Canadians are now serving with distinction in highly responsible positions in international organizations. Among the most recent honor of this kind to come to a Canadian was the election of Dr. Herbert H. Hannan, president of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture, to the position of president of the International Federation of Agricultural Producers, when that organization held its third annual conference at the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph in June. Organized in 1946, on a provisional basis, the I.F.A.P., has met in London, England, The Hague, and Paris. Sir James Turner, of London, England, held the office of president until the conference at Guelph this year, when he was succeeded by Dr. Hannan.

President For Past Ten Years

Dr. Hannan has had wide experience in farm organizations and has been president of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture for the past ten years. A native of Ontario, Dr. Hannan graduated from the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph in 1926. He worked for a time for agricultural journals and served as secretary of the United Farmers Co-Operative Company in Toronto. He later became associated with the Canadian Federation of Agriculture and will continue as the president in addition to serving as president of the I.F.A.P. Dr. Hannan also operates a dairy farm near Ottawa. While the new position to which he has been appointed will add considerably to his duties, it will give Dr. Hannan an opportunity to present the views of Canadian farmers to the governments of other nations, and to gain a greater understanding of the problems of farmers throughout the world.

Brings Honor To Canada

Canada was honored by the international farm organization in being chosen as the location for the conference, and again when Dr. Hannan was chosen to be president. More than one hundred delegates and observers attended the conference at which twenty-three of the world's major food-producing nations were represented. As one of the largest of these, Canada, and especially the Canadian farmer, has a great interest in all policies affecting agriculture. Distribution of farm products, co-operative movements, social security for farmers, stabilization of prices and production, and many more problems of international scope are of great interest and concern to us here. The election of Dr. Hannan as president of the I.F.A.P., an honor not only to Canada but to the place which Canadian agriculture holds among the other nations.

National Library Is Urged

WINNIPEG.—Establishment of a national library is the greatest project facing Canadian librarians today, Elizabeth D'Arce, president of the Canadian Library Association, told the association's first general session. "It is our hope for Canadian libraries," she said, "that they will eventually form part of a nationwide system. It is my hope that, as they develop, it will be possible for them to lay stress on information and more knowledge, less emphasis on the book of the month and more on the book of the decade."

RICH, SPICY CINNAMON BUNS

Recipe

Measure into large bowl, 1 c. lukewarm water, 1 tsp. granulated sugar; stir until sugar is dissolved. Sprinkle with 2 envelopes Fleischmann's Royal Fast Rising Dry Yeast. Let stand 10 min., THEN stir well. Add 1 c. milk and stir in 1/4 c. granulated sugar, 1/4 tsp. salt, 6 lbs. shortening and 1 lb. lukewarm. Add to yeast mixture and stir in 2 well-beaten eggs. Stir in 3 c. one-half loaf bread flour; beat until smooth. Work in 3 c. more one-half loaf bread flour. Knead until smooth and elastic; place in greased bowl and brush top with melted butter or shortening. Cover and set in warm place, free from draft. Let rise until doubled in bulk. While dough is rising, combine 1 1/2 c. brown sugar (lightly pressed down), 3 tsp. ground cinnamon, 1 c. oil, 1 c. molasses and 1/2 c. raisins. Punch down dough and divide into 12 equal portions; form into smooth balls. Roll each piece into an oblong 1/4" thick and 10" long; brush each piece with oil and roll in 1/2" of sugar. Place just touching each other, a cut-side up, in greased 17" round layer-cake pans (or other shallow pans). Grease tops. Cover and let rise until doubled in bulk. Bake in moderate oven, 300°, 30-35 minutes. Serve hot, or reheated.

FUNNY And OTHERWISE

"Why, Bridget," exclaimed the housewife, "I can write my name in the dust here."

"Deed, ma'am," replied Bridget, admiringly, "thot's more nor I can do. There's nothin' loike education after all, is there, ma'am?"

Kind Lady: My good man, are you looking for work?

Wayfarer: I hope, madame, you will not press that question; what I am looking for is a job.

"I hold in my hand here a bright and shining silver dollar," announced the candidate to a group of youngsters. "That dollar goes to the lad who is level-headed enough to belong to the same party as I do."

Then turning to a bright-eyed urchin at his left, he asked: "What's your politics, son?"

"What's yours?" piped the young opportunist.

Father (speaking to prospect): "The man who gets my daughter will get a prize."

Prospect: "May I see it, please?"

Mark Twain once said, "When I was a boy of 14, my father was so ignorant I could hardly stand to have the old man around. But when I got to be 21, I was astonished at how much the old man had learned in seven years."

Attendant: "Your doctor is outside with a flat tire. What shall I do?"

Service Station Owner: "Derogatorily it is a definition of the 'perimeter' and charge him accordingly."

"I've got a little job I'm dreading," remarked a genealogist to a friend. "Rich Mrs. Williams engaged me to look up her family tree and I find that one of her family was electrocuted for murder."

"Aw, don't let that bother you," comforted the friend. "Just describe the man as having occupied the chair of applied electricity at one of our large public institutions."

"Buddy, couldja spare a dime?"

"No, but come along and I will buy your breakfast."

"Heck, I've got three breakfasts now trying to get a dime!"

A new farmhand from the city was told one wintry morning in the small hours to harness the mule. In the dark he tackled a cow instead of the mule.

The farmer shouted from the house: "Say, what's keeping you so long?"

"I can't get the collar over the mule's head," shouted the farmhand. "Both his ears are frozen stiff."

"What's in this bottle?" asked the customs officer.

"It's only ammonia," stammered the passenger.

"Oh, is it?" sneered the custom's officer removing the cork and taking a long sniff.

It was.

Customer: "I have spoiled my suit with your fresh paint."

Grocer: "But didn't you see the sign, 'Fresh paint'?"

Customer: "Yes, but I didn't take much notice. You have a notice, 'Fresh eggs'?"

First description of undulant fever as a distinct disease was made in 1859.

THE TILLERS

BY GOLLY, EVEN IF TODAY IS MY BIRTHDAY, I DON'T FEEL ANY DIFFERENCE FROM YESTERDAY.

Young Ducks Banded In Wildlife Survey

REGINA.—Young ducks as well as adult birds will be banded by members of wildlife groups engaged in the annual waterfowl survey now being conducted out of Regina.

Participants in the project are Johnny Lynch, Abbotsford, Louisiana; Floyd Thompson, Salt Lake City, Utah; and Ray Schumann, St. Paul, Minnesota. Members of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service; Dave Colla, Winnipeg, Dominion wildlife officer for the prairie region; and Mary MacDonald, Saltcoats, provincial member of the survey team.

According to Mr. Lynch, banding of immature birds is a comparatively recent innovation, made because former methods had serious disadvantages.

"When we first began to band the youngsters we started as if we were walking on eggshells," says the American naturalist. "In trapping we used soft netting instead of wire so that the ducks could not be hurt. We took the youngest ones out first so that they had the best chance. Now we can trap 500 at a lick without losing a one."

"We take better care of the birds than we do of our own personnel," he adds humorously. "Our men get wetter than the birds do. The ducks are trapped on dry land so that there is no danger of them drowning."

Mr. Lynch points out that the banding of younger birds was begun because of the disadvantages of dealing with adult waterfowl exclusively. The latter practice is too selective to give a valid sampling since many ducks will not come to bait. Besides this, such methods do not provide a complete life-history of the ducks because they tell nothing of what has happened to the birds before they were trapped.

Present work done by the field workers may be described as the second phase of a wider survey that has been going on for more than two months. It is all part of a giant undertaking in international co-operation with countless agencies in Canada and United States participating. One such unit is the local museum, personnel of which are presently engaged in bird-banding at Last Mountain lake.

Of the 1,699 traffic accidents reported in Ontario in the first three months of this year, 506 were caused by speeding, 338 because drivers were on the wrong side of the road, 400 because the driver in question did not have the right of way and 26 by cutting in and out of traffic.

Grasshoppers Out Of Luck

CORONATION, Alta.—At least two farmers of this east-central district of Alberta aren't sharing any of the optimism usually associated with their line of work. Drought conditions have just about ended their hopes for good crops this year.

Asked if his crop was suffering, Harold Thornton said:

"No law, no law, no law!" Bill Peterman is feeling sorry for any hungry grasshoppers which may venture into his crop. "They will have to bring their own lunch," Bill said.

Hard-Surfacing Road Links Regina, U.S.

REGINA.—Completion of black-topping of 157 miles of highway stretching from Regina to the U.S. border at North Portal has been announced by the Saskatchewan highways department. The new all-weather road is expected to encourage an increased flow of tourists and others between the province and the United States.

The entire project, started in June, 1947, was completed in two years, with the final stretch finished June 15 of this year. Black-top now runs south from Regina on No. 6 to Corinne, then southeast to North Portal on No. 39, connecting there with North Dakota state highway 52, also paved.

Black-topping was done by W. Beattie Ramsey, Regina contractor, with the exception of about seven miles, done last year near Rowatt by a provincial highways department crew.

Harvesting Of Crested Wheat Grass Seed

SWIFT CURRENT, Sask.—The Dominion experimental station at Swift Current issued the following statement on the harvesting of crested wheat grass seed:

Crested wheat grass should be left for seed on every field where the grass heads out and does not seem to be suffering from lack of moisture at this time. It is important that as much seed as possible be produced since the demand is great and the supply very limited. The cost of seed is so high that it will be profitable to harvest a stand yielding as low as 50 pounds per acre.

To obtain as much seed as possible, it is important that the grass be cut at the right stage and proper harvesting methods be employed to avoid waste. Crested wheat grass should be cut when the heads are brown with a greenish tinge. Only the most mature heads should approach a brittle condition. One of the best methods of harvesting is to swath and combine, three to four days give the best results because the rate of travel can be slow while a high sickle speed is maintained. It is important that the sickles are in good condition.

Although straight combining is not generally recommended, short, thin stands are best harvested by this method. Combining should be done promptly when most of the seed is ripe. Even under the best conditions considerable green seed and other green material will be present and it is essential that the seed be spread on the floor of a granary to dry before it is cleaned and stored in order to prevent heating.

When combining, the following suggestions may be helpful:

1. The cylinder and concaves should be fairly far apart. Rub bar cylinders have given best results as they do not break the straw up as much as tooth cylinders.
2. Machines should be operated below normal speeds.
3. The wind blast should be cut down.

4. Adjust sieves so that they are fairly flat. This will avoid broken straw from falling through with the seed.

Crested wheat grass seed can usually be cleaned satisfactorily with the ordinary fanning mill if proper zinc screens are used.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

AN EYE FOR BEAUTY

By WESLEY FIRTH

THE Mexican sat like a wobbling jelly on the patio of his hacienda, a few miles out of Mexico City. I climbed out of the car and in my only words of the lingo, said: "Saludos Amigos."

"Bengleash senior?" he enquired with an oily smirk.

"Yes," I said. "Seeing your country."

"She es lovely, es she not? The sun, she es always shining."

"I see you have a notice up advertising refreshments, I told him, sitting on the steps. "I'm thirsty."

"Si, si, senior. Please to wait a minute . . . Isabella . . . queek! bring these gentlemen a drink."

The girl who came in answer to his bidding made my eyes pop.

I had heard a lot about the beauty of Mexican señoritas, and now I was seeing—and believing. If they grew them this way in the city.

She walked gracefully, skirt swinging against sun-tanned, shapely legs. She placed the bottle on a table and gave me a gleaming smile which almost bowled me over. Then she went back into the hacienda.

The Mexican had been watching me all this time with a sly smile. I settled with him for the drink, and he spat on the coins before slipping them in his pocket.

He said, "The senior es interested in the señorita?"

I grinned, didn't reply. He possessed a wandering eye from his right ear and scratched his head. He said: "Bet es always so. And why not? There is no such joy in life as a lovely señorita. I know, amigo, I have been married three—four times."

The beautiful young girl came out again carrying a nap-bucket with the help of a woman with a face like the rear end of a clump of cactus. They vanished round the building, and I thought that if that was what he'd married, he could not have much of an eye for beauty. When you're old you can't be choosy.

"Ah, yes," he sighed. "Even a poor peon such as I may build himself a wonderful world." He turned on me suddenly: "You are going to Mexico City?"

"Buenos Diaz," I said. "Er—I mean, yes."

He smiled: "You do not speak so language of my people well, eh? You need a guide."

"I expect I will," I agreed.

Western Briefs

ONE EGG ENOUGH—The hens are working overtime on Harry Hearn's farm, 15 miles outside Regina. An egg which he brought in to his sister-in-law, Mrs. Richard Hearn, 2108 Alderson street, had four yolks when broken open. "There'll certainly be enough eggs for supper," said Mrs. Hearn.

MILLIONTH PERSON—The millionth person in the mass X-ray survey by the Saskatchewan Anti-Tuberculosis league was examined recently at this town.

OPENS IMMIGRATION HALL—WINNIPEG.—For the first time since the war, the Dominion Immigration hall was opened here for the accommodation of 65 immigrants. Awaiting train connections, they were among 700 who arrived in Winnipeg on Canadian Pacific train. In the group were Poles, Russians, Yugoslavians and Lithuanians who are travelling to western Canada.

NEW MILL PLANNED—EDMONTON.—Plans are under way for erection of a new 250-ton capacity mill to replace the 150-ton-per-day mill and assay office of United Keno Mill Mines near Keno, Yukon, which was destroyed recently by a $200,000 fire of unknown origin.

MAY LOSE SUGAR BEETS—WINNIPEG.—Shortage of labor may cause loss of part of Manitoba's sugar beet acreage, the Farm Help Service Office reported. Farmers with beet plantings, they said, can't get help to do the weeding and thinning.

There Was A Difference Between The Daughter And Mother.

"Si, There is much of beauty in Mexico City—but the guides, senior, they are all worms and sons of worms! They will rob you of every penny. They will trick you . . . they are thieves."

"I'm afraid it can't be helped, senior," I told him. "I'll have to have one."

He nodded and spat with gravity at a passing lizard. He lit an evil black cigar, and seemed to have lost interest in me and my needs.

The two women came back, and the young one glanced at me, spoke to her companion. Both giggled, then the older woman with the garçole features grasped her arm and hurried her inside.

"My wife and my only daughter," he explained, looking up and following my gaze.

He offered me a cigar which I hastily refused. He shrugged, not displeased. He blew smoke at the sun above, then transferred his attention to me.

I had been about to rise and leave, but he motioned me back to my seat. "The Bengleash I like and trust," he explained. "I would not do that for an Americano—oh no! But you, Senior, have an honest face . . ."

I had the modesty to blush and mumble: "Pleice of you . . ."

"So, I have decided. Senior, for a small consideration—shall we say—ten dollars—I will permit my daughter to go to the city with you and show you round. She es very lovely and speaks your language and will protect you from those devils, those robbers."

"But really . . ."

"Isn't it a bit unusual? And perhaps she wouldn't wish to come."

"Senior, she es my daughter. She wold come. You agree?"

I agreed. I anticipated quite a time in Mexico City with such a fair companion. He said: "Please to wait here, Senior. I will instruct her to prepare herself for you."

I relaxed, looked out over the desert in the distance. The sun was blazing merrily; it was siesta time. He came back, this great mountain of a man. Behind him came the two women . . . I wondered if the mother was going to make some objection. And he said, drawing the beautiful young girl forward by the hand: "Senior, these es Isabella, my fourth wife, and these . . ." indicating the fat woman. "es my little girl, Es-tralia; daughter of my first wife. She wold go with you gladly."

And before I could protest the outrageously ugly señorita seized me firmly by the arm and hauled me off towards my car.

RECIPES

CHOCOLATE CHIP PIE
2 tablespoons unflavored gelatin
2 tablespoons cold water
2 egg yolks, beaten
2½ tablespoons sugar
½ cup milk
Salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
2½ tablespoons sugar
2 egg whites, beaten
½ cup grated semi-sweet chocolate
8-inch baked pie shell
Dissolve gelatin in cold water. Cook egg yolks, sugar and milk, salt over hot water, stirring constantly, until thickened. Add vanilla and gelatin; stir until dissolved. Chill until syrupy.
Add 2½ tablespoons sugar to the egg whites and fold into gelatin mixture. Add grated chocolate. Pour into pie shell and chill.
Top with whipped cream and crushed chocolate chips.

STRAWBERRY PIE
1 medium sized uncooked pie shell
3 cups strawberries
½ cup sifted crushed cracker crumbs
2 egg yolks
¾ cup sugar
Sprinkle the bottom of the pie shell with very finely rolled, sifted cracker crumbs (to absorb the excess juice). Fill shell with berries which have been washed, hulled and drained. Beat egg yolks thoroughly and add the ¾ cup of sugar. Cover the berries with this mixture.

Tilling And Plowing Match

Judges and officials at the Edmonton district tilling and plowing match discuss the various implements on display. 5,000 people attended the matches where there were no entries of horse-drawn outfits.

Shown at the Edmonton Plowing Match was this International "mogul" 1014 model tractor, which is still used each fall on the Horse Hills farm of Chas. Bergwardt.

Stump Clearing Tackle . . .

Properly hooked up with good large pulleys this block and tackle arrangement makes it possible to remove large stumps with only one team of horses or a tractor.

THE best equipment for the removal of stumps today is the bulldozer. However, if you have none of these machines available in your community, you can probably remove most of the stumps with the stumping tackle shown in the accompanying drawing. If the timber from these stumps has been cut only recently, it may not be possible to pull the larger ones in which case it would be best to resort to dynamite.

Manitoba Drilling Gets Oil Showing

WINNIPEG.—Four showings of oil are reported by the Eouria Valley Oil Co. which is drilling 10 test wells in southwest Manitoba.

One of the wells at June 15 was down 4,424 ft. President O. Knisley says that light grade oil was found at 4,406 ft. and that in a test of the well from 4,406 to 4,424 ft., fluid rose in the drill pipe . . . distance of 60 ft. in a 25-minute test. Mr. Knisley reports that gas was present with the oil.

The company has undertaken to go to a depth of 5,000 ft. in each test well. The one where oil showings are reported is 2½ miles southwest of Lynton and about six miles from the international boundary.

It Wasn't A Beaver, Muskrat, But Nutria

COURTENAY, B.C.—It wasn't a beaver, but it had a beaver-like head. It wasn't a muskrat, even though it had a rat's tail.

Game officials here had but one question: "What is it?" but finally they knew.

Experts at Victoria said it was a nutria—or a myopotamus corypus, if you prefer zoological accuracy. Nutrias are South American rodents which were introduced into B.C. some years ago as a possible source of new furs.

The nutria in question was killed by a trapper when it attacked his "mighty quack-looking."

SOURCE OF VITAMIN C
Tomatoes are a good home-grown source of vitamin C—ascorbic acid. Strawberries are also a pleasant way of getting this vitamin. 2836

Large Sums Being Spent On Highways

Expenditure of more than $157 millions on roads and highways this year will bring no dramatic improvements in Canada's highway system, no national project, no official Trans-Canada Highway, just a gradual improvement in both trunk routes and country roads. That's what The Financial Post found in a coast-to-coast survey recently.

Four provinces—Ontario, Manitoba, Saskatchewan and British Columbia—report expenditures at a new high. Some new and improved highways are included, but for the most part it's a program of maintenance and gradual raising of road standards.

Most provinces are taking no particular action in anticipation of agreed plans for the Trans-Canada Highway, though improvements being made both in Manitoba and Saskatchewan could tie up with it whenever it is undertaken.

Another peak in highway expenditure. Sums voted to date are $7.4 millions for main provincial highways, and $1.4 millions for reconstruction and aids to municipalities and school districts.

One hundred and sixty miles of main highway is to be graded, and 65 miles surfaced with asphalt and concrete. The main improvement projects include:

Winnipeg to the international boundary at Emerson.
Brandon to the international boundary at the Peace Gardens.
Brandon to the Saskatchewan boundary. (Trans-Canada Highway).
Saskatchewan

One of the largest programs undertaken in the last year with total appropriation of $7.4 millions. $2.5 millions is for maintenance.

New construction includes 400 miles of "bus grade" roads, 430 miles of gravel surfacing, and 105 miles of bituminous-treated gravel. The projects are widely scattered but much work is being done on each of two alternative routes for the Trans-Canada Highway.

Alberta
Work comparable with last two years. Total appropriation for construction is $9.4 millions; 485 miles are to be graded, and 199 miles surfaced with asphalt. Work spread all over the province. No action being taken on the Trans-Canada Highway.

British Columbia
The most extensive program ever undertaken: $13 millions to be spent on construction, reconstruction and paving; 350 miles to have new pavements.

Feed Grain Supply Shortage In Alberta

EDMONTON.—Threat of coarse grain and pasture crop failure makes it imperative for Alberta farmers to arrange purchase of feed grain supplies. O. S. Longman, deputy minister of agriculture, warned.

A relatively large area will produce only light crops because of drought, he said, and pastures may have early substantial rains to prevent serious livestock production loss.

Shortage of feed grains by early fall is possible, he added, following the placing of coarse grain marketing under jurisdiction of the Canadian wheat board from Aug. 1.

Irma Seniors
In Good Form

The Irma senior baseball club, under the management of Merle Knudson, motored to Minburn on July 6th, and took part in the ball tournament. After a game and a half of ball, Minburn was greeted with a regular cloud burst. However, in about two hours baseball was started again.

Manville won from Bruno. Irma won over Vegreville 7-2. Holden won from Vermilion and South Side Business Men from Edmonton won a close game with Manville. Irma took the Holden slug into camp to the tune of 7-1. In the final game, Irma was up against Edmonton S.S. and after five innings the score was deadlocked 3-3 and the game was called on account of darkness. This, with the good rain, was the end of a perfect day.

This Edmonton team may be down to Irma in the near future, so keep an eye open for posters and how about a little support for your home team.

Here are a few more interesting facts about our victorious ball team. At Dewberry Sports on June 15 the Irma team won first money defeating Vermilion 3-4, Heinsberg 6-1 and Lloydminster 9-4.

At Manville July 1st they defeated Vegreville 10-0 and Manville 6-4 to be finally beaten by Vermilion 5-3 to take second money.

Of the total tournament and exhibition games played this year Irma has won 13 games, tied 2 and lost 5. This record speaks for itself.

Four of our Irma boys, Malcolm Frickelton, Brent McNabb, Arnold Enger and Don Simmerman attended the Baseball School at Edmonton last week. This school was sponsored by the famous Brooklyn Dodgers and the boys were taught by Don Lindberg, Charlie Smith and Tom Lillio.

A Great Need

THE SIGNIFICANCE OF THE TERM "one world" becomes increasingly clear as the speed and efficiency of air travel constantly increases, bringing people of distant places more and more closely together. Events of the past thirty years have taught us that no country or group of people can live without being affected by conditions in other places. The great social problems which resulted from the last war, although they may involve many thousands of miles away, have been recognized and accepted as the problems of people everywhere and especially of those in countries where there has been relative security and abundance of the necessities of life.

Extends Help To Children

One of the great problems of this time is the suffering of many thousands of children rendered hungry, homeless or disabled as a result of the war. The International Children's Emergency Fund of the United Nations has undertaken to deal with this problem and is now extending help to 4,000,000 children in Europe, 500,000 in Arab refugee camps and many others elsewhere. Although they have helped so many, the organization has actually extended aid to no more than five per cent. of those in need in Europe and to an even smaller percentage in Asia. In Europe the work is being carried on in twelve countries, with no regard for any consideration except the needs of the children.

Difficult To Raise Funds

The costs of such an undertaking are very high and constant difficulty is experienced in securing funds to carry on the work. About $70,000,000 has been contributed by governments, of which Canada has given $5,200,000. The United States has contributed $54,888,000 and has undertaken to increase this to $100,000,000 by adding $72 for every $28 given by any other government. Donations to the fund by organizations and individuals have amounted to $10,238,000. In spite of these donations the Children's Emergency Funds recently reported a shortage of $28,000,000 for the present year and no guarantee of funds to continue their work in the future. Since that time an appeal for funds has been made and to this and to future appeals, both to governments and to individuals it is to be hoped that there will be generous response. The Children's Emergency Fund is an international organization, but Canada has given leadership in encouraging its work, which is undoubtedly one of the most necessary and humanitarian efforts being carried on at the present time.

Tourist Business

The revenue from the tourist business in Canada last year amounted to the astounding figure of $270,000,000. The Dominion Bureau of Statistics breaks down the figure to show how this was spent as follows: To retail and department store 67.5 million dollars. To restaurants and food stores, 59.4 million dollars. To hotels, resorts and tourist camps, 45.9 million dollars. To service stations and garages, 32.4 million dollars. For movies, entertainment, recreation, 32.4 million dollars. For train, steamer, bus and plane fares, 18.9 million dollars. For refreshments and roadside purchases, 13.5 million dollars. For novelties, souvenirs, etc., 8.1 million dollars. It is difficult to note how far reaching are the benefits from the tourist industry.—Chatham News.

France Expects To Retain Leadership In Tourist Trade

PARIS.—France, having regained its place last year as the No. 1 tourist attraction of the world, intends to see to it that it retains this rank in 1949. Another reason for cheerful faces in tourist headquarters here is increased shipping this year represented by the new Cunard liner Caronia and the French Line's Ile de France which is scheduled to go back into service some time during the summer.

The principal reason for optimism is that the country at no time since the war has been in better shape than now to receive visitors. This is particularly true of Paris. The hotels have reached their pre-war level and many have improved on that. Refurbishing of rooms and interiors, and restocking of supplies have been going on apace, and personnel is up to full strength. Prices are generally higher than last year in keeping with the generally rising cost of living, but are still reasonable when calculated on the official exchange rate of about 330 francs to $1.

American Tourists To Spend $15,000,000,000 On Vacations, Travel

NEW YORK.—Americans will spend an estimated $15,000,000,000 on their vacations and pleasure travel this year, which helps explain the tourist's important position in the world. He is, in Marshall Plan language, an inexhaustible "invisible export". More than $800,000,000 will be spent on foreign travel. About $400,000,000 of this will go for trans-Atlantic passage and vacations in Western Europe. Another $275,000,000 will be left in Canada. Tourists at home will spend about $14,000,000,000 on transportation, hotels, food, entertainment, souvenirs and the assorted equipment with which most vacationists load themselves down.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY

SOX FOR MR. LEVIN

By Louis Arthur Cunningham

FREYA's fingertips ached to touch them. But such stockings were not for her. Ah, the lovely things, finer wovens than the webs the spiders leave on the grass at dawn. She could picture herself drawing them on, shaping them, looking at her ankles, at her calves—the loveliest in Ulenford, perhaps in Sweden—as lovely as Selma's. Selma's—Selma who was the queen of Hollywood, who was adored the world over, Selma who had sat with her—her, Freya Sundstrom, in the school at Ulenford.

Well, she would be as great as Selma. But no one else in Ulenford believed her when she told them. The other boys and girls laughed at her; Kristen, her mother, was sometimes angry, sometimes amused; but always Kristen said, "Make the butter and the cheese, Freya, and say your prayers. Marry Leif Jansson and have a good home. And don't envy Selma; for all her fuss, is not happy. Selma wishes she were back. Shame on you! When Carl, your brother, brings his ship home, will you spoil his few days here by sulking?"

Freya did sulk a few days. Freya acted so outrageously that Carl raised: "Very well. I will take you to America. You go against your mother's wishes and my own, seeking something that is not for your happiness. But go you shall!" So Freya went, across the ocean, not as she would come back, in some great liner, in a stateroom filled with flowers, but in a sturdy cabin in the Lars Blomsten. But one had to suffer for one's career!

And it was no worse suffering than this. To stand here in this magnificent store, to gaze upon the gowns of silk and velvet, the furs, the shoes—the stockings! And to realize that there were only a few coins in her purse and that thirty Carl had cautioned her against spending them. As if she could! She could understand no English, except one phrase that had been the title of Selma's Regard's great picture.

Those stockings! How she wanted them! But it was a sin to steal. The Reverend Lundstrom, who preached grimly to Ulenford, promised hell-fire to anyone who stole. But—there was no one here right now. The people up the counter were deeply engrossed and the street door was such a short distance away.

Freya took the stockings and thrust them into an inner pocket. They seemed to wriggle in this magnificent store, to wriggle in her heart throbbed and there were wings on her ankles that would make her fly. She must not run. She must walk out calmly, carefully—the way Selma had walked in that picture.

"Conscience Interfered With A Career."

"Three Years." Like a flash of awful light, blinding her, it came into her head that Selma, in the picture, had stolen from a big store, stolen some little thing—a vial of perfume—pushing it. A crippled lady was coming in and Freya hated her because the door just seemed to crawl. Suppose, as in that picture, the detectives had seen her!

Out on the street, she fought the inclination to look back, but it conquered her. Oh, God! Two men—one fat, one thin. And the fat one was pointing at her and talking vehemently and now they started after her.

She had come up this street from the dock where the Lars Blomsten lay. So she hurried straight down it. She could feel the pursuit. Oh, let her once get on the ship, let her reach her father and feel his strong arm about her. There, at last, was the ship. She had always hated it, thought it ugly, like an old black kettle, but now it was lovelier than any of the dream-ships she had hoped to sail upon in years to come. Let her get safe, and she would go home and never again think of Selma or Hollywood. Her bright hair flying from under her, she dashed up the gangplank. Only now did she look back. They were at the corner, these men, and with them now was a policeman, and he was pointing at the Lars Blomsten, right at the ventilator behind which she cowered.

"Freya! What is it?"

"Oh, father!" She flung herself against him. "It is the police. They are after me. I—I have stolen something from a store—a pair of stockings! But they saw me. Save me from them and I—I will not ever again envy Selma Regard. Even I will go back home gladly and marry Leif."

"Go to my cabin!" he said sternly. "Wait there."

The men were coming up the gangplank as she dashed into the cabin and hid her face among the cushions. Could her father, by paying them the worth of the stockings, send them away?

The door opened. The men came in with her father. The two detectives were out of breath. The fat one was wiping his brow and swearing. She knew that, for God's name, sounded much the same in English. Then he began to scold her and when her father shook his head, the fat man began to scold harder.

"Three years—three years," he kept yelling at her father and her father just looked solemn and shook his head. Ah, she understood that. Three years—it was Selma's picture.

Some of the most attractive evening dresses shown in collections are made of Western African printed voiles, dyed in various shades of blue, green, and yellow, and striped organdies.

For day clothes, thin cambré weaves have been supplanted by half twist cotton crepe of solid texture.

Cotton materials are now handled such as woolen fabrics, and the effect of these clothes worn with smart, formal accessories is most attractive.

The English woman's summer wardrobe will be made more flexible by the addition of heavier cottons for wearing on dull, cool days.

TIME TO GET BUSY MAKING JAM AND JELLY

For Quick, Easy
Sure Results
Take Your Choice of CERTO
or
CERTO Crystals

Jam and jelly-making need not be a chore. The sensible, modern way to do it is with the help of CERTO or "CERTO" Crystals. Both are fruit pectin—the natural substance in fruit that makes jams "jam" and jellies "jelly"—extracted and concentrated for efficient jam and jelly making. The name "Certo" is a trade-mark.

Please yourself which you choose... some prefer the liquid—some the crystals. Each ends guesswork and tedious long-boiling. Each gives sure results if you follow the instructions exactly.

SUMMER DANGERS

YOU MAY NOT BE THIS FOOLISH—
BUT IT PAYS TO KNOW THE ANSWERS

1. POISON IVY
2. SUNBURN
3. SUNSTROKE
4. INSECT BITES
5. EATING BEFORE SWIMMING
6. CUTS

Beware Of Summer Hazards!

YES—beware of summer hazards if you wish to enjoy a happy, healthy, care-free vacation. Summer holidays should restore health, not endanger it.

Just remember that vacation-time has its own particular hazards, and realize that danger lies in excessive sunbath, poison ivy, undue fatigue, untested drinking water and unpasteurized milk. Also, learn to swim before you "paddle your own canoe". It sometimes takes a full two weeks to sustain safety. First exposure should not exceed 10 minutes in the morning and 10 in the afternoon. Sunburn is a real burn—just as real as though you placed a hand on a red-hot stove. Many suntan lotions on the market help to prevent excessive burning, but they are not a cure for burns.

Excessive sunbath. Excessive sunbath also can lead to a variety of skin diseases.

Poison ivy looks like Virginia Creeper, but has three leaves instead of five. It is very irritating—growing mostly in waste places, equally at home in such woodlands or near bathing beaches. All parts of the plant—leaves, flower, fruit, bark or roots—are equally poisonous. This plant's poison can be carried by clothes which have come in contact with the plant, particularly if the clothes are damp at time of contact.

Animals walking in the plants also will carry the poison.

However, if you do become involved with poison ivy, don't scratch and remember that your greatest friend is cheap laundry soap, which gets down to business with the oily poison. Use soap generously and scrub the infected parts well under running water.

Beware of drinking water which appears clean, but possibly could be contaminated. Water is a notorious vehicle for the transmission of serious diseases, but can be made safe by boiling or chlorinating. Also, the common dipper or cup should be avoided.

Vaccinationists are advised against the use of unpasteurized milk. Home pasteurization methods should be used if the commercially pasteurized product is not available. Use of milk in its raw state involves unnecessary risk because while milk is one of the best all-round foods available, it unfortunately is easily contaminated by disease-causing bacteria. This applies to milk produced under the most sanitary conditions.

Also, it will be well to remember that many of the summer difficulties with children result from insufficient rest. Older infants and young children should go to bed at least as early on hot nights as usual—and if showing signs of fatigue should be bathed and put to bed earlier.

The custom of serving cranberry sauce originated in England.

Forecast Record
Number Of Cars
On Highways

NEW YORK—A record year for vacation driving with at least 24,000,000 cars headed for summer recreation areas, is the forecast currently being advanced on the basis of inquiries already received by various automobile organizations.

It is expected that there will be more holiday motorists than in 1935 and that the total mileage they will run up will exceed that for the corresponding period last year.

While it is estimated that about $6,000,000,000 will be spent by motorists on vacation—which is about the same as last year—there are indications that individual expenditures will be reduced. Motorists appear to be more budget conscious this season, and how they distribute their cash and how much they spend seems to be a matter of growing concern to them, according to the American Automobile Association and the Automobile Club of New York.

With gasoline and repair facilities more plentiful and all prices down somewhat from the high of early this year, 82 per cent. of the vacationists are expected to travel by automobile this season. Only 76 per cent. used that means of transportation before the war.

Foreign travel is also expected to continue to increase in popularity, with Canada leading in tourist preference. Last year set a record for travel to Canada from the United States, and the Canadian Government and resorts are determined to reap again a full share of the tourist harvest. Mexico is also continuing to show a strong increase in visitors from across the border.

MOUSE GOES ELSEWHERE
BUNNELL, Ill.—The fire department here got a new kind of alarm: "mouse on fire". Mrs. William Duman said a mouse started a blaze in a closet by chewing on matches and then ran across the floor, on fire. The firemen put out the blaze in the closet but never did find the mouse.

Why CERTO Fruit Pectin
or CERTO Crystals
Make Better Jams and Jellies
...Easier...Quicker

1. VERY SHORT BOIL. When you use CERTO or "CERTO" Crystals you need only a ONE-MINUTE full, rolling boil for both jams and jellies. Such a saving of time and work!
2. MORE JAM OR JELLY. Very little juice has time to boil away as it does in old-fashioned, long-boiling. You get up to 50% more jam or jelly from the same amount of fruit.
3. FRESH-FRUIT TASTE... COLOUR. The lovely taste and colour of the fresh fruit stay in your jams and jellies because the boil is too short to spoil the one or dull the other.
4. NO GUESSWORK. With either CERTO or "CERTO" Crystals you get tested recipes—a different one for each fruit. Follow them exactly and you'll have no failures.
